Top 5 RVing Trends

1. RV | Wherever Whenever

The sharing economy fueled by the likes of Uber and AirBnB, have helped transform the travel industry in many ways. RV Sharing platforms like Outdoorsy and RV Share now make it possible for everyone to go RVing even if they don't own an RV

2. Boondocking .. RVing Unleashed

Boondocking (aka Dry Camping) is growing in popularity thanks in part to several new websites that make it easy to find a spot to take your RV boondocking.

If you are the type of camper who wants to experience a secluded, natural environment while retaining the comforts of home in your RV, you can find the perfect place to do just that.

Websites like Hipcamp, Home Camper, and Harvest Hosts have made it easier than ever to find private land on which to park your RV away from the crowds

3. Glamour meets Camping

Glamping refers to outdoor experiences, where you stay in cabins, treehouses fitted with modern amenities, so you get a taste of the outdoors without having to forego modern amenities/comforts. Travellers can filter their search based on the type of camping accommodations you need, whether you have a tent or a variety of sizes of RVs. You can also filter to include whether or not the site is pet friendly.

4. RVing with Pets is 2x Fun

We know how much you love your furry family members. That is why many RV Campgrounds/ parts have a range of facilities that make them pet friendly. You have twice the fun when you travel with your fur babies and they enjoy the unrestrained freedom that open spaces of nature offer!

5. Peace of Mind | Anywhere Anytime

While traveling with your pets is pawsome, keeping them safe from the harsh elements is of utmost importance. When left behind in an RV/ Car/Cabin, the temperatures can get dangerous for your pet pretty quick on a hot or chilly day. Use a Pet Monitor to get peace of mind when you leave them behind.
