FOR A CAT-FRIENDLY TRAVEL

When it comes to traveling with cats, you must always treat your highness the right way. Some cats are adventurous, while some are shy. Some prefer to stay home and be treated like royalty. If you have a cat that is adventurous, good for you.

Here are a few tips for spending quality time on the road with cats.

MAKE THEM COMFORTABLE

Take your cat's favorite bed or toy while RVing to make them feel it like their natural habitat.

SAFETY COMES FIRST

Cats have the habit of moving around. This increases the chances of them getting hurt when the vehicle is on the run. Have a crate and put them in it while traveling.

GET A LITTER BOX

Cats pee a lot more than dogs. So it is essential to get a litter box so that they feel comfortable while traveling.

TRAIN THEM ON HARNESS

Cats are free-spirited and do not like to be leashed. Training them with a harness is the best thing to do when going out on a hike.

TEMPERATURE CHECK

Cats have an internal temperature of 100.4° or 102.5° Fahrenheit and cannot handle the heat. Make sure to carry Waggle Pet Temperature Monitor with you to keep track of their comfortable environment.

CATS CAN GET CAR SICK

Visit a vet before the trip and get medications for all possible problems that could arise. It is always better to be prepared than regret later.

PROTECTIVE WINDOW COVERS

Screen sheets cannot stop your cats from lurking around. Seal your windows to avoid your cat from escaping when you are not noticing.

Still, think cats cannot be purrfect travel companions? Follow these tips and hit the road with your purrfect sassy queens and kings.
